Firm Fair With All, GM Head Testifies

3 Dealers Criticize Methods

WASHINGTON (AP)—President Harlow Curtice of General Motors Corp., raked over the coals in public by some GM retail dealers, testified Friday that the giant auto firm plays fair with everybody.

No management organization he knows of, Curtice told the Senate Antitrust and Monopoly subcommittee, has "a more general regard for the equities of the various groups with which we have contact—customers, employers, suppliers, dealers and shareholders."

Sen. O'Mahoney (D-Wyo.), chairman of the subcommittee, let Curtice take the stand four hours after he showed up. First the senator called for testimony in which three dealers accused GM of treating them like "pawns and vassals," putting them under "almost diabolical" sales pressure and forcing them to buy equipment they did not need.

O'Mahoney said Curtice and other GM officials should "have the benefit" of this testimony and he directed them to listen to it. Curtice made no direct reference to the dealer criticism. He did say dealers' net profits before taxes are now 415 million dollars a year. He said this compared with 72 million dollars in 1940.

During the postwar period, Curtice continued, GM dealers had had profits before taxes of over five billion dollars, after deducting one billion of owners' salaries and bonuses.

Curtice said there were four principal reasons for GM's success. The dynamic growth of the country, the even more rapid growth of the automobile industry, GM's management structure and GM's approach to problems.

GM's approach to problems, Curtice said, "is really an attitude of mind. It assumes that everything and anything—whether it be product, process, method, procedure or social or human relations can be improved."

One of the recurring complaints the subcommittee has heard from dealer witnesses is that they are sometimes arbitrarily deprived of their franchises to sell GM cars. Curtice testified GM has set up a dealer relations board composed of top company officials to which dealers threatened with loss of their franchise may appeal.

Weather Outlook For December

WASHINGTON (AP)—The Weather Bureau said Friday its 30-day outlook for December calls for temperatures to average above normal in the Southeast and near normal in the Middle Atlantic states, Ohio Valley, and West Gulf states.

In the remainder of the nation, below normal temperatures are expected, with the coldest weather in the Northern Plains, the bureau said.

Precipitation in the form of rain and snow is predicted to exceed normal in states bordering the Mississippi and Ohio Valleys, the western Rocky Mountains, and West Coast. Subnormal amounts are indicated in the Southwest and Southeast, and near normal elsewhere, the bureau added.

CALL U.S.S.R. PARLIAMENT IN SPECIAL SESSION

MOSCOW (AP)—The Supreme Soviet (Parliament) of the U.S.S.R. was summoned Friday to meet in special session Dec. 23.

A decree signed by President Klementi Voroshilov and N. M. Pegov, secretary of the Supreme Soviet's Presidium — or interim organization — gave no reason for the unusual holiday-time session. Western diplomats believe, however, it is intended to provide a forum for Premier Nikolai Bulganin and party boss Nikita Khrushchev to report in a full blaze of publicity on their current jaunt to India, Burma and Afghanistan.

The most recent Soviet session met Aug. 4 to hear a report from Bulganin on the Geneva summit conference.

CALL MORSE TO SPEAK AT BENTON

BENTON, Ill. (AP)—True D. Morse, assistant secretary of agriculture, is to be the featured speaker Monday at the annual rural-urban meeting sponsored by the Benton Rotary Club.

MERGE LABOR GROUPS—George Meany, left, president of the American Federation of Labor, talks with Walter Reuther, president of the Congress of Industrial Organizations, prior to attending a luncheon of the Executive Boards of the AFL-CIO in New York. The merger of the two giant labor groups was approved at the current convention today, with Meany becoming the first president of the combined organization.

CIO Ends 20-Year Split With AFL By Approving Merger

NEW YORK (AP)—CIO convention delegates, singing "Solidarity Forever," Friday ended a 20-year split in union labor by approving a long-awaited merger with the AFL.

CIO delegates voted 660-3 for the merger, which the AFL had approved unanimously a day earlier. Separate AFL and CIO conventions came to an end and both groups prepared to meet Monday in a week-long joint session.

Chicago Labor Leader Answers Contempt Charge

WASHINGTON (AP)—A Chicago labor union leader, flanked by armed body guards, appeared at the Capitol Friday in an attempt to purge himself of contempt. But he was denied an immediate hearing and his guards were stripped of their weapons.

Angelo Inciso, president of Local 286 of the AFL United Auto Workers, sought to testify before a Senate Labor subcommittee investigating union welfare funds. He had ignored two subpoenas and the committee cited him for contempt.

Inciso, who says he fears for his life, picked up two Washington private detectives as bodyguards on his arrival at the airport from Chicago. When he and the guards reached the Capitol, police took away the guns.

Subcommittee Chairman Douglas (D-Ill.) turned aside Inciso's plea to be heard immediately, told him to stay in town, and scolded him for failing to show up last Monday as ordered.

Douglas said committee aides would first examine union records which Inciso brought with him and will hear him later, possibly Saturday or early next week.

"In the meantime," Douglas said, "Mr. Inciso will not leave the city, with the understanding the contempt citation still stands. However, this may be modified if it is felt that Mr. Inciso's testimony is in good faith."

Massachusetts Not Approving Further Use Of Salk Vaccine

BOSTON (AP)—Massachusetts has decided not to approve further use of Salk vaccine for polio until authorities are convinced of its safety.

In a report released Friday by the New England Journal of Medicine, the Massachusetts Polio Advisory Committee, which includes professors in Harvard Medical School, leaves the Bay State and Idaho the only two states to withhold approval.

Among committee members are some of the foremost authorities on infectious diseases and polio, such as:

Dr. John F. Enders and Dr. Thomas H. Weller, who won the Nobel prize for their discoveries of means to grow polio virus in test tubes; Dr. Conrad Wesselsheff, president of the Massachusetts Medical Society, and Dr. Samuel B. Kirkwood, head of the State Health Department.

Polio cases in Massachusetts set a record this year. To date, 3,844 cases have been reported. The previous high incidence was 1,927 cases in 1916.

The Public Health Service in Washington, when asked about the Massachusetts decision, issued this brief statement:

The historic merger action, welding 140 unions into a 16-million-member federation, climaxed two years of active negotiations. The basic agreement was reached last February in Miami Beach, Fla., and it took until now to complete it.

The new organization is called the American Federation of Labor and Congress of Industrial Organizations—AFL-CIO.

The CIO was formed into a rival labor group over two decades ago by AFL unions which decided because they wanted to organize workers in whole industries. The AFL unions are organized along craft lines.

It does not include all of the nation's organized labor unions. Prominent independent unions include John L. Lewis' United Mine Workers with 600,000 members; the International Longshoremen's Assn., 65,000; the various railroad brotherhoods 390,000; and the independent telephone unions 101,000.

Walter Reuther, CIO president who is stepping aside to let AFL President George Meany head the merged organization, told the ratifying CIO session, that, "this is not the end. The CIO goes on, the AFL goes on, but they go on together in a unified labor movement."

Meany told concluding AFL sessions the merger was a milestone in labor history. He sought to calm misgivings of a few union leaders that the new organization would be too large and unwieldy by saying, "I may be a chump but I don't think so."

The grain cradle came into use in America in 1830, passing from use when the horse-drawn harvester proved more efficient.

Cabbie Repudiates Statement Telling Of Killing Girl

CANTON, Ill. (AP)—A 28-year-old taxicab driver charged with raping and murdering 8-year-old Janice May has repudiated his signed statement telling of the killing.

Sheriff Virgil Ball and State's Atty. Blaine Ramsey said Friday that Lloyd Miller Jr., repudiated his statement Thursday night. They quoted him as saying he signed it in Springfield early Thursday because "I got tired answering questions."

Miller was bound over to the Fulton County grand jury Thursday night on charges of rape and murder. He is being held at an undisclosed site.

Ball said he is pressing a search for bloodstained clothing which Miller said in his statement that he had tossed away after raping and killing Janice Saturday and leaving her body among some railroad cars.

Sec. Benson's Plea For Advice Brings Variety Of Replies

WASHINGTON (AP)—Secretary of Agriculture Benson has received nearly 2,400 letters in response to his recent request that the public write him his ideas on the farm problem.

Reporting this Friday, the Agriculture Department said replies ranged from strong endorsement of the secretary and his policies to demands that he resign.

They came from all sections of the country, from city folks as well as farmers and women as well as men. A few came from members of Congress.

Benson's appeal for public suggestions was made in a speech before the convention at Cleveland Nov. 23. The letters are being reviewed by a technical staff. All writers have been promised a personal reply from the secretary.

Ernest C. Best Jr., a Benson assistant, said that of those offering suggestions, a large number urged adoption of measures which would make farm surpluses available to the needy at home and abroad.

He said most writers expressed concern over declining farm prices and income. Best said the only appraisal of the letters made so far has been to determine which ones offered suggestions meriting study.

Of 2,270 reviewed to date, 1,450 were said to contain "substantive suggestions meriting further technical review."

A review of the letters indicated that more city writers approve of Benson and his policies than farm respondents.

Best said some of the letters were abusive and some were obviously from cranks.

An Oregon writer suggested that farmers be allowed to pay their income taxes in surplus farm products. Still another said he was "bewildered, confused, and my mind is full of doubts."

Flaming Train Wreck In England Kills 12, Hurts 50

BARNES, England (AP)—A flaming train wreck killed 12 and injured 50 here Friday night.

A speeding electric train packed with homework-bound theatergoers and late workers crashed into a standing freight train and caught fire near the station of this suburban town, eight miles west of London's center. Victims screamed as they fought to escape.

The front coach hit the rear car of the freight under a steel road bridge, left the rails, overturned and burst into flames. The impact shorted the car's power circuit. The short sent sparks soaring into the sky like rockets.

Firemen fought the fire from the bridge, with flames at times reaching 40 feet above their heads and lighting the sky for miles around. The girders of the bridge glowed red hot and melted far across its roadway in the half hour before the fire was brought under control.

Fred Boner, a passenger who was riding in the rear, said he was asleep when the crash came. "We were hurled in a heap to the floor," he said. "We looked out the window and saw the front coach on its side. Minutes later, part of it seemed to burst into flames. People were shouting for help and screaming. It was awful."

The body was discovered by Mrs. Beal's husband, Harry, 50, when he returned home from his job as mail foreman for the Illinois Central Railroad, Rome said.

The police chief said the burglar on a quiet street in the suburb on the south edge of Chicago was in disarray, giving the appearance of an attempt at robbery. But he said it had not yet been ascertained if anything was missing.

The woman, he said, apparently had been beaten before being strangled. Her body was partly unclothed, but he said a medical examination is necessary before it can be determined if she was raped.

The Beals have two children. Police did not have their names or ages.

S-D Day Results Disappointing As 69 Die In Crashes

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Despite all the advance campaigning Safe-Driving Day from the viewpoint of deadliness was just another date on the calendar.

Sixty-nine persons died in street and highway crashes during the 24 hours of Thursday, Dec. 1, the target day chosen by safety campaigners to point up the benefits of caution.

This was the identical number of persons killed on Thursday, Nov. 17. The Associated Press selected that date at random to gather statistics for comparison with S-D Day.

Thursday's toll was far above the 51 reported on the nation's first observance of S-D Day. That was Dec. 15, 1954.

S-D Day was one of special concentration on the highway traffic death problem. President Eisenhower urged caution and his plea was echoed in special campaigns of newspapers, radio stations, civic groups, advertisers and others.

In many cities police wore arm-bands and used banners urging safety. Many cities conducted special community-wide campaigns.

H. B. Miller, director of the President's Committee for Traffic Safety, termed the toll "disappointing" but said he hoped it would be a lesson for the future.

About half of the states reported no traffic deaths.

The AP survey included the following deaths by states:

Illinois 1, Indiana 3, Kansas 2, Kentucky 2, Michigan 3, Minnesota 2, Missouri 4, Ohio 8, South Dakota 1, Tennessee 6 and Wisconsin 1.

Ike Discusses Nation's Defense With Top Advisers

GETTYSBURG, Pa. (AP)—President Eisenhower talked over the nation's defenses for 75 minutes Friday with his two top military advisers, who had narrowly escaped injury on the slippery, 80-mile drive from Washington.

The conference, with Secretary of Defense Charles E. Wilson and Adm. Arthur W. Radford, took place in the President's newly bullet-proofed office here.

Saturday Eisenhower will have separate meetings with Republican leaders of Senate and House. His 11 a. m. knowledge with Sen. William F. Knowland of California takes top place in speculation in view of the Republican Senate leader's repeated efforts to get the President to give an early "yes or no" on whether he will seek reelection.

Rep. Joseph W. Martin of Massachusetts, his leader in the House, is seeing the President an hour and a half earlier.

Both Wilson and Radford took a cheerful view of the rough ride to Gettysburg Friday, the former telling reporters "it was a little slippery, but I'm used to that."

They complimented their driver, James D. Freeman, a veteran Pentagon chauffeur.

Find Strangled Body Of Woman, 50, In Home In Harvey

CHICAGO (AP)—The blood-smeared, strangled body of a 50-year-old housewife was found Friday in her five-room bungalow in suburban Harvey.

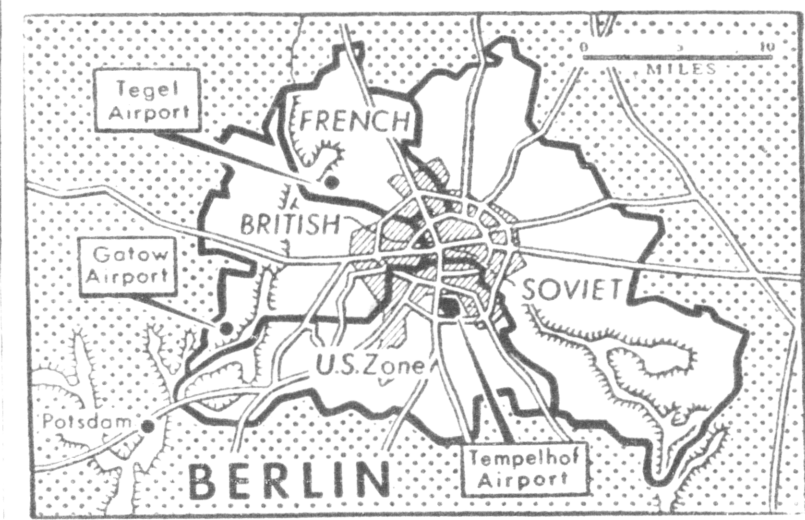

A senior official at the Pentagon said in Washington Friday the governor's Florida flight plans might give the Air Force something more to investigate.

Folsom Thursday night promised to order every available Alabama National Guard plane on a "special weather mission" to the Florida city the day Auburn meets Vanderbilt in the Gator Bowl there.

While Alabama officials declined to say how many planes might be involved in such a mission, Washington sources said they would be most concerned with use of at least two C-47 transport planes and one squadron of B-26 tactical bombers assigned to Alabama.

These are planes that can carry passengers in addition to the crew. The Air Force announced in Washington this week that an investigation would be made into reports that Air Guard planes had been used for unauthorized trips to take Folsom and his friends to football games.

TROUBLE-SPOT AGAIN—The West Berlin government reacted sharply to what seemed to be a Soviet move to terminate the special status of the Western Allies in East Berlin and perhaps ultimately in the entire city. After a special meeting of the City Council it was announced that the government hopes the U. S., Great Britain and France will protest in Moscow any unilateral action by the Soviets to change the status of all or part of Berlin. The East Germans laid formal claim to Berlin as their capital and said they will ban all U. S. army autos with radio transmitters from the Soviet Sector.

Soviet Uses Burmese Shrine As Rostrum For Vilifying West

RANGOON, Burma (AP)—Russia's Nikita S. Khrushchev broke through a devout silence among meditating Buddhists Friday with an outburst against American, British and French people and traditions.

The setting was the Shwe Dagon Pagoda, 2,500 years old and the foremost of Burmese shrines. Worshippers traditionally preserve silence there.

The pagoda dates from 388 B.C. and is kept constantly sparkling with applications of gold leaf to its highest tip, 368 feet above the spire where Khrushchev stood.

The place sits on a 168-foot mound and Khrushchev had puffed up nearly 200 steps to reach the base.

Khrushchev stormed against what he called the stupidity of the Western nations as he sat down after his climb. At the end of his outburst the Soviet Communist party boss was gasping for words.

Soviet Premier Nikolai Bulganin, touring Burma and India with Khrushchev, sat silently as the party chief unleashed his barbs during a conversation he started with the Burmese ambassador to Russia, Maung Ohn, and into which he drew accompanying foreign correspondents.

At the Shwe Dagon, Khrushchev admired the temple's few wood carvings and then burst out to the Burmese ambassador:

"England (which freed Burma in 1948) did not exist before William the Conqueror."

"Your temples are 2,000 years old and theirs only 1,000 — yet they call you savages and barbarians."

"How difficult history is to change — because there are some people who refuse to change it."

From this Khrushchev turned to a discussion of architecture and the talk apparently raised a sore subject: The case of the Russian architect Alexander V. Iosad, whose work was criticized by the Soviet government while he was visiting the United States and France with other Russian architects.

Hint Probe Of Use Of Planes To Fly Governor To Games

MCINTOSH, Ala. (AP)—Gov. James E. Folsom's defiant threat to order a "Gator Bowl" armada of National Guard planes to Jacksonville, Fla. Dec. 31 may broaden the scope of an Air Force investigation.

A senior official at the Pentagon said in Washington Friday the governor's Florida flight plans might give the Air Force something more to investigate.

Folsom Thursday night promised to order every available Alabama National Guard plane on a "special weather mission" to the Florida city the day Auburn meets Vanderbilt in the Gator Bowl there.

While Alabama officials declined to say how many planes might be involved in such a mission, Washington sources said they would be most concerned with use of at least two C-47 transport planes and one squadron of B-26 tactical bombers assigned to Alabama.

Conant Explores Incident

BERLIN (AP)—The Western Powers served notice on the Russians Friday night they will hold their bridgehead in divided Berlin until all Germany is unified.

U. S. Ambassador James B. Conant came from Bonn to reiterate this pledge before a crowded news conference in which he also spoke for the British and French, saying:

"The position of our governments in regard to the status of Berlin is unchanged. We insist that the quadripartite status of Berlin remains unaltered."

Conant conferred with the U. S. Berlin staff and with German city officials during his one-day visit to explore the incident which stirred the latest East-West conflict here—the detention of two U. S. congressmen and two other Americans by Communist police and Russian guards in East Berlin last Sunday.

The ambassador said he was, like the U. S. command in Berlin, Maj. Gen. Charles L. Dasher, amazed at the stand Soviet commander P. A. Dibrova took toward the incident. Dibrova said the radio-equipped Army car used by the congressmen and their escort violated laws of the East German Communist republic. He emphasized that the Russians regard their occupation of East Berlin as ended. Therefore, Dibrova said, the laws surrounding East Germany now apply to the East Berlin Soviet sector.

Earlier Friday, the Communist newspaper Neues Deutschland declared the four-power status of Berlin is "nonexistent."

To the Russian and the German Communist statements, Conant replied:

"I should never have imagined that the Soviet authorities would allow their agents, the Volkspolizei (people's police), to take such a discourteous and arbitrary action against a member of the United States command here in Berlin and his guests."

He said the Western Powers do not recognize the Communist regime in the East; they do not accept the Russian abrogation of the 10-year-old four-power agreements on Berlin and they will continue to hold the Russians responsible for the proper treatment of Allied citizens in East Berlin.

In defiance of the Soviet excuse for the original detention, Conant rode his big, black sedan into East Berlin this afternoon and toured a portion of the area.

"And I had the American flag flying," he said with a grin.

Accidents involving motorcycles account for approximately 1,000 deaths yearly in the United States.

GIDDAP—WHOA IN CONGRESS

Back in 1946 Congress passed a law aimed at streamlining its operations. A huge cut was made in the number of regular standing committees, and other changes followed. Things were looking up for one of the world's most inefficient organizations.

The promise of better times was short-lived. With the total of its full committees sharply reduced, Congress began slowly to enlarge the number of its subcommittees to compensate. So today there are 235 regular standing and joint committees, against 230 in 1946.

The House Agriculture Committee finds it necessary to maintain 14 separate subcommittees, one for each major crop. If this kind of thing keeps up one may discover in 1966 that there is a Subcommittee on Blueberries and a Subcommittee on Timothy.

Recently the National Planning Association, aided by a Ford Foundation grant, made an exhaustive comparison between Congress and the British parliament. Naturally enough, Dr. George Galloway, who made the study, found many important differences, some of them inevitable, some to our advantage, some not.

The study caused the NPA to highlight again what students of parliamentary systems regard as the major shortcomings of Congress.

One, obviously not cured, is the rabbit-like multiplication of committees. Another is the time-wasting practice of hearing key witnesses on major bills before first a House and then a Senate committee. Such hearings should be joint.

Another great time-waster is the habit of having endless House roll calls which consume hours of valuable effort. A push-button voting system would vastly shorten House balloting.

Congress currently operates a kind of grandiose city council for the District of Columbia. The job long ago should have been delegated to the district itself. And the lawmakers deal annually with countless so-called private bills affecting immigration, naturalization and other matters which ought to have no place in the legislative halls.

Many of these points have been made before, but they merit repetition. It's not a matter of creating a body that will satisfy an efficiency expert. It is a matter of molding Congress into an agency which can really keep pace with the fast-growing nation for which it makes the laws.

There is no place for a horse-and-buggy Congress in the jet age.

DR. JORDAN ANSWERS ★

SELF CONTROL IN EATING IS STRICT NECESSITY FOR DIABETES PATIENTS

By EDWIN P. JORDAN, M.D.
Written for NEA Service

Since we are observing Diabetes Week this year it is appropriate to answer several questions on this disease.

Q—My husband has been a diabetic for the past four years. He has always been a big eater but the last couple of years food has become an obsession with him. He eats a large dinner and then makes himself a sandwich or a cereal bowl with milk. When he gets up at night he also eats. Don't say get a diet as we both know the diet. But it is worth nothing when it is undone during the night—Mrs. R.

with diabetes should receive the same careful medical care as would be received by a grownup.

Q—Please comment on diabetic stroke and what the doctors call a spillover—Mrs. C. F.

A—The first of these questions presumably refers to a type of unconsciousness coming from the accumulation of acid products in the system. "Spillover" refers to the fact that sugar in the blood "spills over" through the kidneys into the urine.

Q—My daughter is expecting in a month or so. She has severe diabetes and the doctor has placed her in the hospital and says the baby is getting too large. Are there any chances that the baby will have diabetes?—Mrs. K.

A—With good modern management the risks for a mother with diabetes are much less than they used to be; the chances of a healthy baby are also better. There is some chance that the baby will have diabetes but there is a better one that it will not.

NOTE ON QUESTIONS

Dr. Jordan is unable to answer directly individual questions from readers. However, once a week, in the "Q & A" column he will answer the most interesting and the most frequently asked questions received during the week.

Manners Make Friends

One wife complains when her husband is unavoidably late to dinner. "My dinner's ruined! Another wife serves the 'ruined dinner' without trying to make her husband feel responsible for it. The second wife is merely using good marriage manners.

They go a long way toward keeping a marriage smooth-running and happy.

CLOSE TO EXTINCTION

The kea, large green parrot of New Zealand, is noted for its habit of attacking sheep for the purpose of obtaining the fat about the kidneys. Shepherds have killed so many because of this fact that now the kea is almost extinct.

Everyone's a 'Good Guy' In This Military Drama

By PETER EDSON
NEA Washington Correspondent

WASHINGTON (NEA)—The Middle East shooting has been moved right from the Gaza to the Washington strip. Within one recent week, the Washington press corps has had it from both barrels.

First it was Egypt's Ambassador, Dr. Ahmed Hussein, giving his country's side of the dispute. Then Israel's Foreign Minister Moshe Sharett moved in. And to say that confusion is rampant is to put it mildly.

To begin, both sides claim to be peace-loving states.

"The policy of Israel is never to start a war or launch an offensive," says Sharett.

"The Egyptians have no aggressive plans, and it is not in their interest to attack anyone," says Hussein.

That Being The Case, who started the fighting?

Each accuses the other of breaking the 1949 armistice.

"We were given to understand by the Western powers that Israel had no intention of attacking us," says the Egyptian Ambassador. "But this hope was soon dashed when Israel launched its unprovoked assault on the Gaza strip on Feb. 28."

"Egypt has systematically violated the armistice agreement by armed incursions into Israel," says the Israel Foreign Minister.

Each Side Claims the other is military stronger. This is something of a novelty. In most wars, each side claims it can knock the spots off its enemies.

This is the way Foreign Minister Sharett puts it:

"Even before the Czech deal to furnish her with arms, Egypt had enjoyed a definite superiority over Israel in all classes of heavy arms on land, on sea and in the air."

And this is how Ambassador Hussein analyzes it:

"Even in the American press, Israel is credited with having a military superiority for in excess of the combined Arab forces, with being in a position to mobilize all her forces within 48 hours, and to capture easily the three neighboring Arab capitals in six weeks."

This being the situation, both sides claim they must have more arms—for self-defense and to maintain peace, of course.

And What Do You Suppose suggested solution for this stalemate is? Well, each side wants the United States to step in and make the other behave.

Israel wants a new treaty with this country.

"Additional arms and a security guarantee are both sought by Israel as bulwarks against aggression in the absence of a peace settlement," says Foreign Minister Sharett.

Egypt's Ambassador Hussein, on the other hand, says that such a large section of Arab public opinion believe Israel so dependent upon the United States that, "Israel would not dare disobey her." Every Israeli act of aggression, says Hussein, convinces the Arabs that the United States is "indifferent" to the welfare of its 45 million people.

These final arguments seem to reduce the whole business to the ultimate absurdity. Both Arabs and Israelis, themselves innocent, blame their troubles on the United States for not furnishing them both with more arms—to keep them from fighting each other.

Food Mixes Undermining Another Home Achievement

"This cake is delicious," the guest said. And the hostess, looking apologetic, answered, "It's just a mix."

We women have hailed as great time and trouble savers all the new aids to cooking, the packaged mixes, the heat-and-serve foods that come ready-cooked in cans, the frozen dinners, the half-baked bread and rolls, the soups made by adding water to a bouillon cube, etc.

But the blessing of all these ready or nearly-ready-to-serve foods is overshadowed a bit by the fact that they have taken a lot of the pride of the creative artist out of cooking.

"It's just a cake mix," today's housewife says without pride. The look of pride on the face of a woman prepared for a dish made by a recipe handed down in her family is the pride of real accomplishment.

After all, if making a dish by a modern mix or combination of prepared foods is so simple "a child can do it," as the advertisers say, how can a grown woman take any real pride in serving it?

And if a husband left with a well-stocked freezer and a cupboard filled with cans and mixes can eat just as well when his wife is away as when she is home, what satisfaction is his wife going to get out of her job of cooking?

Before we women forget how to cook from scratch, and miss prize recipes handed down from mother to daughter and from daughter-in-law to daughter-in-law, we should realize that the easy, modern, getting a meal on the table in a few minutes isn't good enough for a family ALL of the time.

No husband is going to say, "Nobody in the world can make pies like yours" if he gets frozen pies all the time.

And no child is going to remember his mother's cake as the best he ever ate if it came ready mixed in a box.

Now is the time to take advantage of low prices for delicious pork products. So let's head the advice of the National Live Stock and Meat Board on how to cook the many pork products on the markets.

Braised Pork Chops

Brown them first in their own or a small amount of added fat. Then cover the pan and let them cook slowly for 45 minutes to one hour, depending upon the thickness. Arrange the golden-brown chops on a platter and garnish with mince-meat apples.

Mince-meat Apples (for pork chops)

Five medium-sized baking apples, 5 tablespoons mince-meat, 2½ teaspoons butter, 1 cup sugar, 1 cup water.

Wash and core apples. Place in a deep baking dish. Fill the cavities with 1 tablespoon mince-meat and ½ teaspoon butter. Boil sugar and water together for 5 minutes; pour over apples in baking dish. Bake uncovered in a moderate oven (350 degrees F.) one hour, basting frequently with syrup.

Pork Cuts for Roasting: Center-cut loin roast; sirloin and blade loin roasts, cut from the ends of the loin and equally as flavorsome as the center cut, usually retailing for several cents per pound under the demanded center cut; tenderloin; crown roast, an "occasion" roast made of rib sections formed into the shape of a crown; Boston butt, section of the pork shoulder; smoked shoulder butt, the boneless "eye" of the Boston butt which is cured and smoked; whole ham; butt and shank halves of ham; thick ham slice; spareribs; shoulder; cushion-style picnic; boned shoulder with pocket formed for stuffing; Canadian-style bacon, the boneless back strip cured and smoked.

Smoked Pork Cuts for Broiling: Canadian-style bacon; thick ham slices; smoked shoulder butt slices; bacon.

Pork Cuts for Pan-frying: Thin ham slices; tenderloin; Canadian-style bacon; thin pork chops; thin smoked shoulder butt slices; fresh shoulder butt slices; fresh side pork; salt pork; bacon.

SUNDAY'S DINNER: Clear tomato bouillon, roast of pork, apple-sauce flavored with grated horseradish, baked sweet potatoes, buttered Brussels sprouts, rye rolls, butter or margarine, celery and olives, mince-meat turnovers, cheese, coffee, tea, milk.

to build the schools it will need during the next five years. But, with the exception of a few states, none of the states presently has plans which indicate a political determination powerful enough to overcome all of the obstacles.

Boiled down, this said: No state represented at the conference had shown it couldn't afford to pay for the classrooms it needed. Just because they hadn't shown they couldn't afford it, this didn't mean they could afford it.

Then the conference left the door open for itself by adding another sentence:

"Some territories and a few states may need outside financial assistance."

With that addition the conference got itself on record as saying that if the states ever go around to building the schools they need, some might be able to pay their own way and maybe some couldn't.

But the report wasn't clear at all when it said, "With the exception of a few states, none of the states presently has plans which indicate a political determination powerful enough to overcome all of the obstacles."

Who was being shot at there? The home-state politicians? Or the people back home for not putting enough heat on their state and local politicians to get the needed classrooms?

The World Today

By JAMES MARLOW

Associated Press News Analyst
WASHINGTON (P)—There were strong indications today that the President's White House Conference on Education will recommend federal aid to the nation's schools, at least for building new classrooms.

But if it's as vague on that as it was Wednesday on why there are not enough classrooms, it will leave the question high in the air.

Federal aid for schools is the hottest question facing the men and women who came here from the 48 states and territories for this meeting which ends today. It's possible they'll explode over it.

But they were far from explosive Wednesday when they sat around 165 tables, exchanged ideas on why they don't have enough schools, and then approved a report which was a consensus of what they felt and thought.

That report was so careful, and long-winded, it looked like a diplomatic pronouncement by the State Department at one of those times when it wants to make a statement for the record without being very positive about anything.

This was what the report said: "No state represented has a demonstrated financial incapacity

HOLLYWOOD (P)—Dick Powell is in the position, enviable to some husbands, of being able to tell his wife what to do for eight hours each day.

Multi-talented Powell is producing and directing a new, musical version of "It Happened One Night." The stars are Jack Lemmon and June Allyson, who happens to be Mrs. Powell. That means that Powell is her boss during studio hours. Afterwards? Well, that's another matter.

So far, the experience seems to be going along fine, despite the show being occasionally put on to titillate the onlookers. When he raises his voice to give directions in a scene, she'll snap: "Don't shout at me. We're not at home, you know."

But foolishness aside, she expresses admiration for her day-time boss.

"He's so talented," she says. "He can do everything better than we can. He can act better, he can sing better. The only thing he can't do is dance better. That's his weak suit."

"Jack and I aren't so dumb. We get him to act out our parts so we can see how it's supposed to be done."

Helen Traubel Completes Transition From Met's 'Brunnhilde' To Broadway In 'Pipe Dream'

By CYNTHIA LOWRY

NEW YORK (AP)—Next Wednesday night Helen Traubel of Wagner and Strauss will face a first night Broadway audience as Madame Fauna of the Bear Flag "Cafe" and star of the new Rodgers and Hammerstein musical "Pipe Dream."

The transition of a St. Louis woman with a diamond voice from Brunnhilde of the Met to the keeper of a low cafe on the legitimate stage has taken less than five years. Helen has loved every busy minute of it.

But in a few weeks, the imposing, 52-year-old dramatic soprano of the Metropolitan Opera seems almost to have disappeared. "About a week after rehearsals started," said Bill Bass, her husband of 17 years and manager, "she started being Fauna 24 hours a day. She hasn't stepped out of character since. She drops her G's, makes big gestures and acts kind of slam-bang and she's been doing a little mild cussing—that's the kind of a dame Fauna is."

Preliminary reports from New Haven and Boston where "Pipe Dream" has been on its shake-down cruise, indicate Helen's acting debut is sensational and that the Rodgers and Hammerstein lightning which struck Ezio Pinza, another Met veteran, in "South Pacific" has hit the statuesque, red-haired daughter of a Midwestern druggist.

John Steinbeck, from whose book "Sweet Thursday" the musical was adapted, might have had Helen in mind, physically, for the gusty, lusty, shrewd, warm, tough and sentimental Madame Fauna, even though his original Bear Flag was a house conversion less than orderly. (Its conversion to a cafe represented a minor bow by the adapter to convention). Not only did Helen have lines to learn, but she also plunged into dancing lessons and new songs. "Only one thing really stopped me," she remarked, "and that was a direction in one of my songs. It said 'mild grind.' Now I ask you, how do you do a mild grind?"

Chances are that her emergence on Broadway will not outrage and upset the longhairs anywhere near as much as her determination two years ago to hit the night club circuit. At the time, she was the undisputed queen of the Met's German wing. Kirsten Flagstad, the only rival of her generation had retired. To the purists who liked their Wagner and his interpreters undiluted, the idea of Brunnhilde on profitable side trips to the smoky, noisy confines of a nightclub seemed treason.

Rudolph Bing, general manager of the Met, in presenting Helen's 1953-54 contract, suggested that operatic and popular singing "do not really seem to mix very well." Miss Traubel promptly tore up the contract. She accused Bing of "rank snobishness," and wound up by saying that "artistic dignity is not a matter of where one sings."

Then Miss Traubel, who had already knocked critics and audiences off their chairs at the Chez Paree, romped off for a season of concerts and nightclub appearances. As a Metropolitan Opera star, she had been knocking off some $250,000 a year before taxes. In the year after she left the Met, according to educated guesses, she doubled her income.

As a young singer, Miss Traubel made musical history. At 23, she was offered a contract with the Metropolitan Opera but turned it down.

"I'm not ready yet," she said—and went back to St. Louis to continue her studies. It wasn't until 1939—when she was 36—that she felt she was ready to move. Within two years she had taken over the Met roles of the great Flagstad—Brunnhilde and Elisabeth—as the Norwegian soprano returned to her Nazi-occupied country.

"I feel," said Helen, "that this show is right. I feel it's right for me. I just hope people will like it."

She laughed.

"Anyway, I'm having a wonderful time. It's stimulating and it's all new. I'm not in a rut."

75 Ride In Train On First Remote Control Trip

LARCHMONT, N. Y. (AP)—Seventy-five persons took a ride Thursday on what was termed the first remote-controlled train trip in this country.

The group, mostly officials of the New Haven Railroad, made a 10-mile round trip between here and Rye, N. Y., in a self-propelled rail car which was operated with electronics equipment set up on a station platform here.

The event was described as nothing more than a demonstration, the railroad saying it has no plans for such operation of regular trains. The electronics equipment was developed by the union switch and signal division of Westinghouse Air Brake Co.

PERON STATUES REMOVED
BUENOS AIRES, Argentina (AP)—Gigantic white marble statues of Juan and Eva Peron draped in black burlap, were removed from their positions atop the Eva Peron Foundation Building Thursday night.

Meat Prices Will Be Attractive In Stores This Week

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

You'll be able to find attractive prices on almost any kind of meat in the nation's food stores this weekend.

Beef items will be prominently featured, with prime ribs and chuck roast getting particular attention.

Pork continues on the bargain counter. Some markets will drop pork chop prices by several cents a pound and there will be many specials on pork loins.

Lamb will be widely featured, too, and lamb chops will be cut in price in some areas.

Some meat specialists point out that the average price of choice beef cuts has been about 67 cents a pound in recent months, well below the 89-cent average in 1951 and 1952.

Beef is one of the U. S. Department's good buys for December, but the list is led by pork. Pork supplies will be at the season's peak this month and prices are low.

From the wholesale produce markets comes word that your best buys in vegetables are potatoes, onions, turnips, eggplant, greens and radishes.

BABY TELLER
TOKYO (AP)—Prof. Hajime Uda of Tokyo's Meiji University has come up with quite a theory on how to tell whether women will have girl babies or boy babies.

If the husband is well fed, he's likely to father girls. If the husband is "tired out, perennially undernourished" he will tend "to sire male heirs more frequently," says the professor.

Uda says he made a survey of 10 towns and villages before reaching his conclusions. He found more girls in fishing villages, where the men are well nourished from a hefty fish diet.

Uda concedes his theory hasn't got much support from others so far.

PASADENA, Calif. (AP)—The president of California Institute of Technology says Los Angeles is trying to solve a "billion dollar problem, smog, with peanuts."

CHICAGO UTILITY TAX TO BRING $81 MILLION
CHICAGO (AP)—Chicago will get an estimated $81 million dollars more annually as the result of a 5 per cent earning tax on utilities passed by the City Council Thursday. The tax will hike the city's revenue from utilities 2 1/2 million dollars.

Affected utilities are Commonwealth Edison Co., Illinois Bell Telephone Co., and Peoples Gas Light and Coke Co. They said home owners' bills will be upped about 2 1/2 per cent.

One Man's Disability No Handicap In Operating Rabbit Business

By BRUCE ROBERTS

Tampa Tribune Writer
TAMPA, Fla. (AP)—Rabbit fancier E. J. Hausmann is a man who scooted to success by using his head instead of his feet.

In the 10 years since he took up rabbit farming he has created such a market that he — and even the rabbits — can no longer keep pace with the demand. And he did it on a motor scooter, because he can't walk.

Ten years ago Hausmann was in the contracting business when he was stricken by arthritis in both legs.

The pains grew worse and Hausmann knew he couldn't continue to get around as a contractor. Years before, he had raised rabbits. He wondered if he couldn't raise rabbits as a means of support after his legs gave out.

At first he thought he could get around his 2 1/2 acres of land and do all his work from a wheel chair "if the hitches and things were built right." But it wasn't long before he realized this wouldn't work.

"It took all my strength to push the chair around," recalls Hausmann. "Then I saw an advertisement for a kid's motor scooter. That was just what I needed. I got one. The gas kind made too much noise, so I got the battery kind that runs on three car batteries and has two back wheels so it can't tip over."

Hausmann made the rounds of grocery and meat stores in the Tampa area and talked them into selling rabbit meat.

"Rabbit-in-a-basket is just as good as chicken-in-a-basket," he argued.

He packed the "fryers" in neat transparent containers. Some butchers who hadn't previously carried rabbits were pleased with the products and agreed to stock a small supply. Hausmann says that when he made the rounds for the second time, almost every store ordered more rabbits. It wasn't long before he was selling 100 a week, and sales kept rising.

Hausmann helped organize the Gulf Coast Rabbit Producers Cooperative, and the entire group went to work promoting rabbit eating.

When his weekly sales hit 2,000, Hausmann had to import rabbits from other raisers to meet the demand.

Other markets have developed for Hausmann's rabbits. Hospitals and doctors in the Tampa area depend on him to supply the animals for medical purposes. About 20 are used each week in pregnancy tests.

Recently, Hausmann has added pheasants to his farm and is starting to raise the birds on a commercial scale. He also grows strawberries and vegetables and, in spare time, repairs refrigerators.

Mrs. T. Chapman Announces Drive For Mental Health

WASHINGTON (AP)—Mrs. Theodore S. Chapman of Jerseyville, Ill., head of the world's largest organization of women, announced a drive Thursday to "mobilize for mental health."

Mrs. Chapman, head of the General Federation of Women's Clubs, said the campaign included the promotion of state legislation requiring periodic health and psychiatric examinations of school teachers.

She told a news conference the General Federation would pursue its drive to arouse the public to problems of mental health with as much intensity as it used to rid the newstands of comic books dealing with crime, horror and sex.

"That campaign got results and we expect this one will too," she declared.

BARGAIN CAR WASH OFFER QUICKLY ENDS

EVERETT, Wash. (AP)—Snohomish County Sheriff Bob Twitchell received a phone call Thursday in which he was asked if he had seen an advertisement in the Everett Herald reading:

"Cars washed and waxed $6. Car wash only $1. Call Bayview 4890 seven days a week."

"What is this, a gag?" the sheriff asked.

"No, go ahead. Call the number," he was advised.

Twitchell did. A woman answered and when he said he wanted a wash job he was advised:

"Just take it to the parking lot next door to the county jail. Ask for Jake Enfield."

Business soon was all washed up for Enfield—a jail trusty serving six months for burglary. And so was his status as a trusty.

ILLUSTRATOR CARTER, FAMILY, VICTIMS OF MURDER, SUICIDE

NORTH HOLLYWOOD, Calif. (AP)—The bodies of magazine illustrator Pruett Carter, his wife Theresa, and their son, Deal, were discovered Thursday in their $50,000 home in Studio City. Police investigators said Carter, 64, had shot his wife and son, then committed suicide. She was 54 and Deal 35.

A 45 frontier model, single action revolver was found by the body of Carter, who had been an illustrator for several nationally known magazines. No notes were found.

83rd Greenlease Ransom Bill Found

ST. LOUIS (AP)—Another missing $20 Greenlease ransom bill has turned up in the Federal Reserve Bank of Chicago, the FBI reports.

J. Earl Milnes, agent in charge of the St. Louis FBI office, made the announcement Thursday. It brings to 83 the total number of $20 ransom bills recovered to date.

The bills are part of the missing half of the $600,000 ransom paid the kidnap-slayers of Bobby Greenlease of Kansas City in 1953. The rest of the money was recovered with the arrest here of Carl Austin Hall and Mrs. Bonnie Heady, who were later executed for the crime.

"SO WITH PRAYER..."

The sure and nimble touch of the hands of a great pianist is the result of hours of daily practice over a period of years. The great and thrilling music which he creates is the product of daily devotion to his art.

Every fine accomplishment in life requires the same daily devotion. If your house is neat as a pin, if you have a lovely garden, if your office is well-run and efficient, you know that it takes hours of daily care and devotion.

So with prayer. Prayer is one of the highest gifts a man has. But if it is to become more than a spasmodic and superstitious cry for help, it too requires daily care and devotion. It takes practice!

The Church stands ready to help you and your children know the great joy which comes to a man through daily prayer. And the best part of it is, the more you practice prayer, the greater the joy and happiness you will derive from it.

THE CHURCH FOR ALL... ALL FOR THE CHURCH

The Church is the greatest factor on earth for the building of character and good citizenship. It is a storehouse of spiritual values. Without a strong Church, neither democracy nor civilization can survive. There are four sound reasons why every person should attend services regularly and support the Church. They are: (1) For his own sake. (2) For his children's sake. (3) For the sake of the Church and nation. (4) For the sake of the Church itself, which needs his moral and material support. Plan to go to church regularly and read your Bible daily.

The experts acclaim LINCOLN

NEWSWEEK... "The 1956 Lincoln is a completely revamped car... longer, lower, and wider... with 285 horsepower and styling patterned after the experimental 'Lincoln Futura.' Biggest innovations are safety features, developed after years of crash-testing... a safety-flex steering wheel, spring-resistant door locks, optional safety belts."

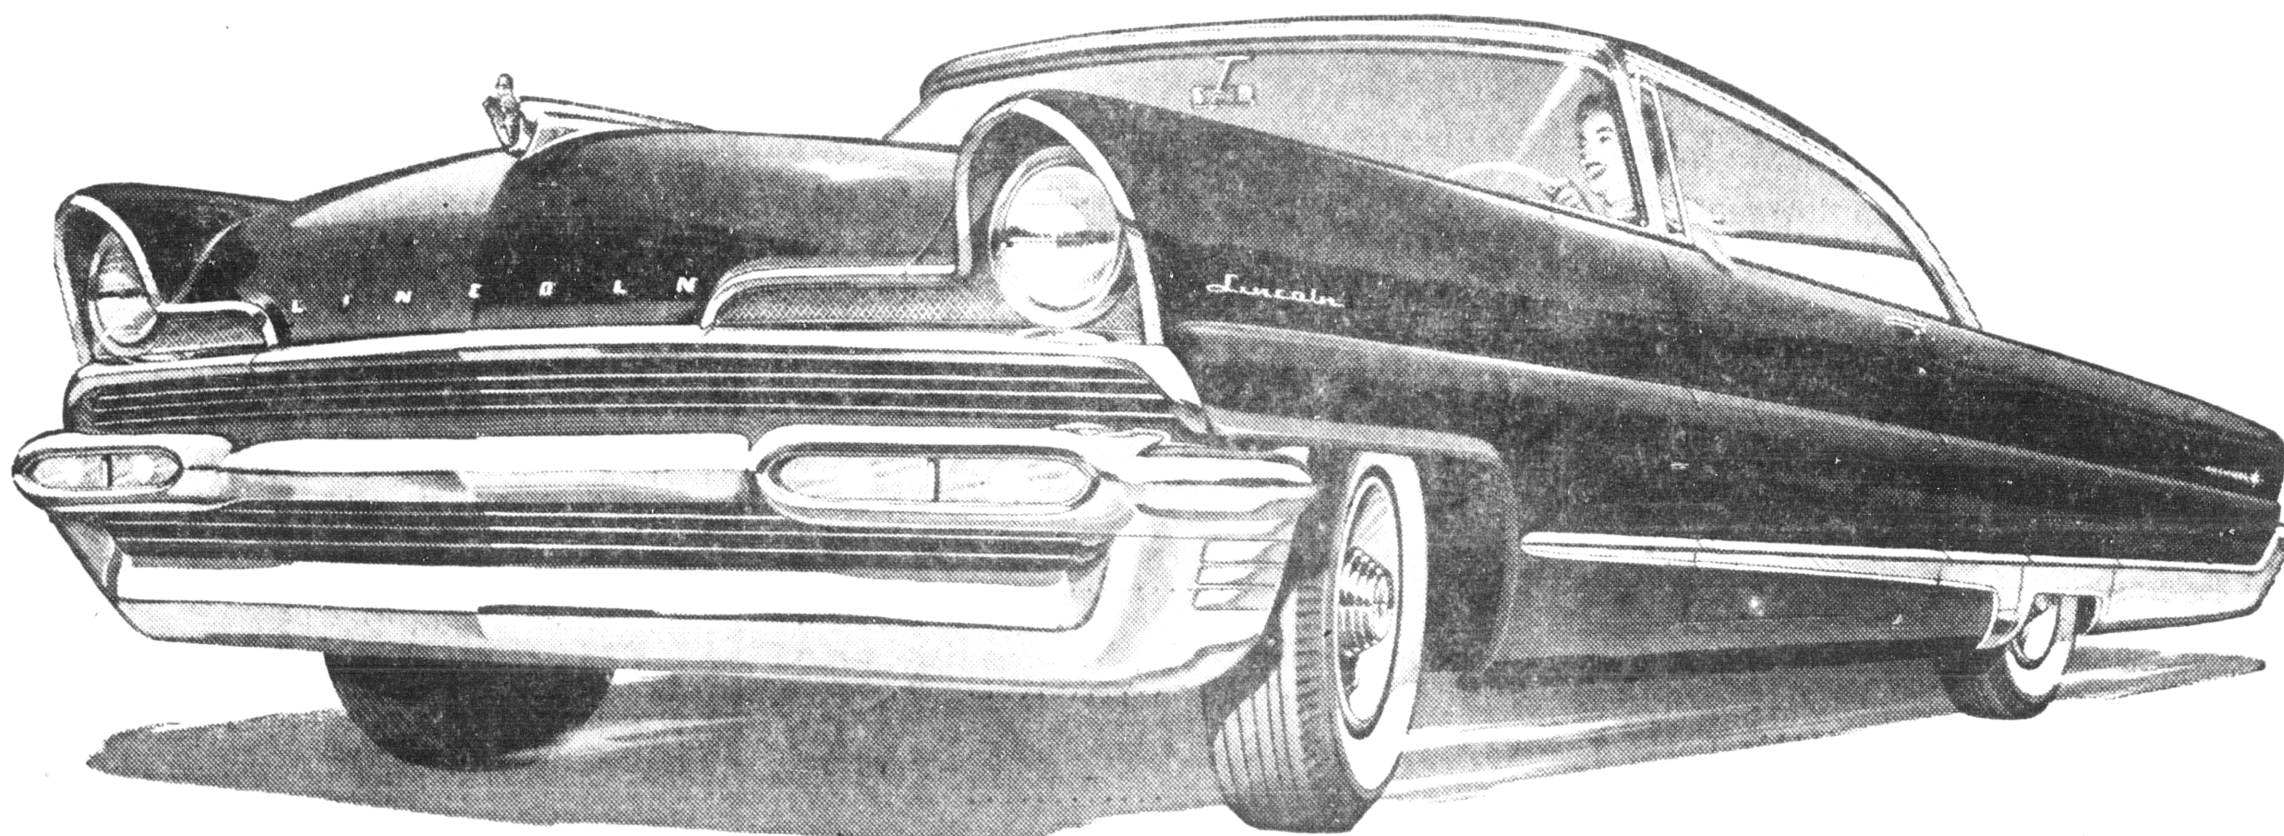

WALL STREET JOURNAL... "The new 1956 Lincolns meet a smash response... Completely restyled, longer and more powerful... one of the few makes to feature a major re-do in looks for 1956. Head lamps are hooded. Larger taillights slash forward... 'Jet-pod' bumper guards house oval-shaped exhausts on both sides."

COLLIER'S... "Lincoln's attempt to penetrate the big-car market more deeply is based on more than prestige. Lincoln is a big car, yet... it conveys an impression of small-car maneuverability... barely five feet high, it has a ground-hugging appearance. Horsepower boosted to 285, and there are new safety devices."

VOGUE... "Fashion news arriving by car: the Lincoln's body is new, its engine is new, its safety wheel is new, and so are the airplane-type toggle switches. With the exception of airport limousines and the like, this is one of the longest cars in America. Handsome accessory to fashion, too, as it happens."

...and the public agrees!

LINCOLN FOR 1956

Fine car buyers are so enthusiastic about this new Lincoln that there has been, literally, a waiting list for these cars since announcement day. And the demand is still mounting. To be sure of driving the Lincoln of your choice at an early date, come in soon.

Another Lincoln "First"... The Robot-Top... The 1956 Lincoln Convertible has the first completely automatic self-locking top—for the quickest, easiest "top-up, top-down" converting ever. No handles or levers to struggle with... nothing to touch but the control.

Machine Shop. Contents Burn Near Jerseyville

JERSEYVILLE — The large machine shop at the farm of Frank Breitweiser was destroyed by fire about 1 a.m. Wednesday with all of the tools and other contents and two pickup trucks which were in the place at the time.

The fire was discovered by a defense industry employee who was en route home from work in the Madison county locality. The workman, William Lacey, saw the fire in the distance after he arrived in the Jerseyville vicinity. He drove toward the fire and arrived at the Breitweiser farm home and awakened the occupants of the residence. The Jerseyville Fire Department was called and sent one of the pumping outfits to the scene. The department succeeded in preventing the spread of the fire to adjacent buildings and farm machinery parked in the immediate vicinity.

The machine shop was one of the most complete in the locality. Breitweiser is engaged in bulldozing work and has a large amount of equipment for that and other types of custom work.

The origin of the fire has not been determined. The loss was fully covered by insurance.

Study Suggests Parents, Youth Share Confidences

The last session of the Area Youth Leadership Workshop, in which scheduled speakers participated and the public attended at the YMCA Youth Center, was held Thursday evening. Robert Falkenburg and Armond Fields replied to "What Youth Believe to Be Important," from two different aspects.

Mr. Fields gave the results of a statistical study conducted locally through Illinois College department of sociology on the subject, "The Adolescent's Conception of the Parent's Role."

The study showed that the children involved in the study were facing a dilemma not unlike what probably many children face in many other communities. First, there seems no mutually felt conception between child and parent of which the youth is capable of achieving. This results in the child feeling he is too young for some things and too old for others. Second, there seems to be a difference in what the youth feels is proper discipline than what the parent considers proper. The study was an attempt to find out how the adolescent really feels about his parental relationships.

The information gained from this study was by means of a formulated questionnaire regarding areas of social control in the family. Questionnaires were given adolescents of both sexes in the age group of 13 to 19 years.

Some of the statistical findings were: 70 per cent feel "it is unfortunate there are few parents a young person can share problems." 63 per cent feel parents don't have close personal contact with their children; 79 per cent feel they get more important advice and problem solving ideas from close friends while 13 per cent cling to their parents; 60 per cent felt the family is not as co-hesive as it should be.

Youth Wants To Confide
The replies to questionnaires suggest the adolescents really want to speak personally with parents, they feel the necessity to share their problems. However, since the child cannot successfully accomplish this with parents, he finds it valuable to turn to his peer group. Replies suggest that children also sense the fact that the peer group is not adequate for them either in solving their problems.

Conclusions pointed to the fact the children feel more discipline is needed in the family. They refer not to restriction but that which arises out of sharing problems and decision making with their parents. Mr. Fields concluded by saying adults should first search themselves for what youth themselves believe and think is right and it may well contribute to a more wholesome family relationship.

Mr. Falkenburg spoke of his experiences while working on Youth Consultant in the Illinois College program in Community Development. He stated he spent over two years in the natural environment of youth facing problems in the schools and law enforcement in the community. He spoke of the particular problems facing four boys coming from different situations. Although the causes are complex he said there were two fundamental problems the boys were facing: social acceptance and adequate employment.

A lively discussion followed the provocative talks. One of the significant aspects of the discussion centered about the role of the church, its importance to their lives and the difficulty in reaching the interests of these boys.

The discussion also indicated there was need for a study concerning the adequacy of employment and wages for the youth growing up in the community. Such a study would need to take into account not only the question of comparative wages but the whole family situation as different social levels, which would include relative costs of living in different communities.

DAN led her back to the store, his face hard and bleak. He turned Paula over to Ernie and ran back to the saloon, calling Phil and Gene to the door.

He explained what had happened. Hiatt shook his head and Phil looked grave.

"He'll hole up at the station where every gun and round of ammunition has been stored."

"We've got to get him, Phil. He's a mad dog," Dan considered the station, eyes distant and thoughtful. "Phil, you and Gene circle the store and work toward the station from the Spade Road."

They argued but Dan beat them down. Dan hitched at his belt and started down the street toward the station.

There was no sign of life, but Dan knew that Pace must be watching him. Over the expanse of snow, saw Phil and Hiatt working their way to the road. Dan lifted the gun, slammed a bullet through one of the windows. He instantly threw himself to one side. A double flash of fire answered him and the bullets cut the air where he had just stood. At that moment, Phil's gun boomed and Dan heard the tinkling of glass. He came up on the balls of his feet and realized that someone rushed down on him from the right. He jerked with surprise when he saw Vivian running toward him.

"Get back!" he yelled and made frantic signals to her. She halted, not three yards from him.

Her eyes softened and deepened as she looked at him. "I worried about you, Dan. I... don't want you hurt."

It struck him like a physical blow that this woman was in love with him.

Dan lifted himself to call toward the station.

"Pace! Pace, listen to me!

There's a woman here. Hold your fire until she can get away."

The slender killer replied instantly, Dan's voice locating his target for him. The slugs plowed into the non-resisting snow, the first one close, whipping by Dan's shoulder, the other two going a little higher. Dan had thrown himself flat and now he lay crouched in the snow, curled, head down. Her head rolled sideways as he grabbed her shoulder and Dan turned her over, holding his breath. That first slug had come close to him had caught Vivian just at the base of the throat and ranged downward. She was dead.

Dan came to his feet and charged the station in a crouching run, face contorted, eyes ablaze. He reached the door and his shoulder slammed the portal back. He instantly threw himself down and to one side.

He saw Pace at one of the far windows. The man whirled and threw flame at Dan. Through the haze of smoke Dan saw the pale eyes alight with a strange, mad glee, the moist lips unnaturally red, twisted in a devil's smile.

Something struck Dan with the force of a battering ram and he seemed no longer to have a side. Everything was in a strange, detached slow motion. He felt his hand lift the gun, saw the muzzle come up. He saw the long spit of red flame lance from the barrel, lance again. He saw Pace come up on his toes, saw the man's gun belch flame toward the ceiling. Then Pace slowly pivoted on the balls of his feet, seemed to be reaching high for something. As a swirling darkness rushed over Dan, he saw Pace pitch forward.

DAN opened his eyes and stared about him in disbelief. He was back in the Preston bedroom.

Connelly, Caudle Blame Politics For Indictments

ST. LOUIS (AP)—Matthew J. Connelly and Theron Lamar Caudle, Truman administration officials accused of conspiracy to defraud the government, blame their indictments on politics.

A federal grand jury investigating alleged tax frauds during the administration of former President Truman returned the indictments Thursday.

Connelly, 48, who was appointed secretary for Truman, said in New York the charge was caused by "a little group of willful men now in power in Washington" who "have called Harry S. Truman a traitor."

"Now because of my association with him they are calling me a crook," said Connelly, now a public relations man.

Caudle and Connelly said they were innocent of any wrongdoing. The grand jurors also indicted Harry I. Schwimmer, a former Kansas City lawyer, on the same charge Thursday. Schwimmer previously was indicted on a perjury charge.

Caudle, 51, a Wadesboro, N. C. lawyer, headed the Justice Department's Tax Division until he was fired by Truman for having outside interests incompatible with his government duties.

Wyllis Newcomb, special assistant attorney general who has charge of the inquiry, reporting the indictments, said that "the work of the grand jury by no means is finished."

Connelly said in a statement he defied the "group of willful men or anybody else to produce one shred of evidence that I have committed any offense against good morals or ethics, or that I have violated any law of the United States."

Caudle, who had been a grand jury witness here just before the indictments were returned, said: "The Republicans have held me over as a scapegoat and public sacrifice, again, for the coming nation election. I deeply feel that there should be a congressional investigation of my indictment and it would be open and free to the public."

Truman, here for a speech at a Roman Catholic youth convention, declined to comment.

Tax difficulties by Sachs' firm is the center of the case. He was accused of evading $118,000 in corporate income taxes. The government contends that Caudle and Connelly conspired to improperly use their influence, with the hope of personal gain, to prevent prosecution of Sachs.

Sachs later was indicted, pleaded guilty and was fined $40,000. Judge Harper, who presided at the trial, gave him no prison sentence because of ill health.

PERON VAGUE ON PLANS
PANAMA (AP)—Juan D. Peron, ousted President of Argentina, arrived here Sunday night. He was vague about his future personal plans.

The fallen dictator predicted the new Argentine government would face trouble from Argentine workers when labor contracts expire at the end of the year.

MENDES-FRANCE TO SPEAK IN LOUISVILLE
LOUISVILLE, Ky. (AP)—Former French Premier, Pierre Mendes-France will speak at the University of Louisville next Friday. He will fly to the United States Tuesday to give two speeches, the one here and one at New York.

Library Guest
MISS MONIQUE DALOZ

Miss Monique Daloz, a French librarian in the U. S. Information Center in Strasbourg, France will spend about two weeks in the Jacksonville Public Library beginning Dec. 5 under the sponsorship of Miss Frances Bailey, the librarian, at the request of the U. S. Information Agency.

Since the major purpose of these centers is that of supplying information about United States, the Agency brings some of their overseas librarians to this country from time to time to receive both technical training and an acquaintance with American ways.

Miss Bailey is finding a cordial response from the institutions and schools in planning a program for Miss Daloz. It is also expected that she will have opportunity for informal experience in home life of the Midwest.

Doc Langer appeared and fussed over Dan while Paula and Phil stood fearfully watching.

"How did I get here?"

"Gene and I brought you," Phil answered. "Paula's been nursing you."

"But it's only been a little while—"

"Five days a little while?" Doc Langer asked, straightening. "It was tough and go with you, cowboy. Paula, give him the news and then both of you sleep the rest of the day."

Phil went out of the room with the doctor. Paula pulled a chair up beside the bed, sat down and took Dan's hand.

Pace was dead, she told him, and so was Juarez, though Dan knew that. Denver, Vause and Egan were under heavy guard awaiting the sheriff who would come down from the county seat now that the roads were passable. Shorty Ratner had died just yesterday.

Gene Hiatt also waited for the sheriff to turn over the stolen money, and everyone in town would do all they could to help the young man become a good citizen again. Gene might serve a short term but he had a home here once he returned.

Crane was recovering nicely and Phil came back in the room then and looked gravely at Dan.

"Vivian McLearn is buried, Dan... one more cruel and useless killing added to all the rest. Ava Rikes has come to her senses and she runs the Wyoming."

"What about Blaise?"

Phil made a slight gesture. "I don't know, Dan. The whole town knows what he planned to do. I figure he'll sell Star before very long. There's no one he can face any more." He looked at his daughter and his face softened.

"But you've both had enough talk. I want you back on your feet, Dan, as soon as you can make it. The sooner you start learning the lumber business, the sooner I can figure on taking it easy."

"Lumber business?" Dan's eyes widened. Phil laughed.

"Sure, lumber business. Think my future son-in-law would do anything else?"

TIME NOW FOR FLORICULTURE, ANGLING

The man who delivered the first parcel post package in Jacksonville retired Nov. 30 after completing 44 years of service with the U.S. Postal department. George B. Ticknor is shown here punching the postoffice time clock for the last time.

He started to work as a special delivery letter messenger, and will never forget his first day—Nov. 15, 1911. In those days special delivery letters cost only 10c, two cents for regular postage and eight cents for the messenger. And snappy service was the rule.

"I went to work at 7 a.m. and got off at 6 p.m.," Ticknor, then 17, recalls. "During all that time only two specials came in and I made 16c on my first day with the postoffice."

Back in 1913 the postmaster and all the help looked with consternation at the first package that came to Jacksonville under the new parcel post law, a law that gave the postoffice department a headache and an annual deficit while it made millionaires out of mail order house proprietors. It also gave the hamlet merchant the first touch of the harsh sandpapering that he's been enduring ever since. That is, if he's still in business and most of them aren't.

"The package didn't weigh too much, maybe 15 pounds, but it was pretty bulky. It was addressed to the Woolworth store on the south side of the square. Everybody around the place looked it over and wondered what to do with it. Finally the postmaster said 'Tick, grab this thing and put in on your bike and haul it over.' And that was the way the first package was delivered in Jacksonville," Ticknor declared.

Native of City

Ticknor was the son of Elmer E. H. and Abigail Bramham Ticknor and was born in Jacksonville. For years his father ran a hardware store on the east side of the square, where Grant's department store is now.

After a short period as sub-carrier at the sub-station, Ticknor became a sub clerk and then went to the mailing division, where he served for 35 years. At one time he was mailing foreman, but the dwindling receipts that came with the 1932 depression knocked out that classification, and it was never restored.

He married Edith Hopcroft of White Hall. She's a pretty steady worker, too, and has been with the Morgan County tax department for 35 years. They have lived in the same house, 1341 S. Clay avenue, for 37 years.

They are the parents of one son, Richard, who is a watchmaker employed by the Elgin Watch company of Elgin, Ill. They have three grandsons.

Sick Leave Valuable

Recent stories appearing in newspapers of how certain postal employees abuse sick leave regulations have disturbed Ticknor. "Sick leave is just the same as insurance, and mighty wonderful to have. It's put there for our benefit against the day when we're sick and shouldn't be abused," Ticknor emphasized. "That's what I tell the young men coming on."

His record proves he practiced what he preached. Postmaster Phil Day said that Ticknor had accumulated 2,036 hours of sick leave, which is roughly equivalent to 51 weeks of work. Maximum sick leave that could be built up in 44 years is 2,776 hours.

To Newfoundland

RONNIE HOOTS

On Nov. 23 Ronald Gene (Ronnie) Hoots, son of Mr. and Mrs. Rollie Hoots, 717 East Douglas avenue, left Jacksonville after a 20 day furlough here to return to his base, Camp Lejeune, North Carolina. He will then leave for a Marine base in Newfoundland. During his visit home he spent two days with his brother and sister-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. Luther Lee (Sonny) Hoots, in Michigan.

"I was pretty sick a couple of times," Ticknor said, "and I certainly appreciated the department's sick leave policy. It's not to be abused by anybody."

Flowers and Fish

He's looking forward to retirement with considerable zest. For years he's had that much admired flower garden just across the street from his house. Roses and chrysanthemums are his favorites, "but I like almost everything that blooms." Right now he has about 75 different varieties of climbing and hybrid tea roses and he expects "to have enough time next year to tend to things right. I love to fish, too, but haven't had time to do much of it so far."

Ticknor was pleased with the gift his co-workers gave him Wednesday afternoon. It was a matched lamp and smoking stand, complete with lighter. And he was touched by the men coming around to shake hands and to thank him for helping them "learn the ropes."

Postmaster Day labeled Ticknor "a model of quiet cooperation. Usually you didn't know he was around the place. But if he's gone you notice it in a minute. It's going to take some doing to find a man to fill his shoes."

PITTSFIELD

PITTSFIELD—A group of students from Culver-Stockton College at Canton, Mo., all members of the Light Opera Guild, will present the program at the next session of the University of Life to be held at the Methodist church Sunday night. They will be directed by Dr. J. Leslie Pierce and will present a miscellaneous program consisting of solos, duets and group numbers.

Clark C. King, an officer of the King Milling Company, was admitted to Illini hospital on Wednesday for a checkup on his health.

Rev. Paul Shellenberger, a former pastor of the local Church of the Nazarene opened a revival at the church Wednesday night which will continue each evening at 7:30 through December 11th, assisted by the pastor of the church, Rev. Garnett Mitchell, and Lee Shuhling of East Alton, who will assist as song leader.

FIRST AND LAST

Last encampment of the Grand Army of the Republic was held at Indianapolis, Ind., on Aug. 28, 1949. Indianapolis was host for the first encampment in 1866.

James Clark Ross is credited with the discovery of the north magnetic pole, in 1831, while accompanying the expedition of his uncle, Sir John Ross.

Builder Of Wright Airplane Engine Ill. Destitute

LOS ANGELES (AP)—The man who built the airplane engine for the Wright brothers' first flight at Kitty Hawk, N.C., is in Los Angeles County Hospital—a destitute charity case.

Charles E. Taylor, 87, was admitted to the hospital Nov. 19, suffering from asthma and general debility. It was reported Thursday that he still receives $800 a year from a fund left by the late Orville Wright, who, with his late brother Wilbur, made the pioneer flights in 1903. He apparently has no other source of income.

Taylor went to work in the Wrights' cycle shop at Dayton as an $18-a-week mechanic.

A hospital spokesman said the county may place Taylor in a sanitarium or rest home unless a private benefactor comes to his aid.

Coach Harry Combes Will Hold Intersquad Game For Varsity Sat.

CHAMPAIGN, Ill. Dec. 2 — Illinois varsity basketball team will make its first public appearance of the 1955-56 season at 3 p.m. Saturday in George Huff Gymnasium, when Coach Harry Combes stages an intrasquad game preparatory to the regular season opener with Butler next Tuesday.

Admission to the game will be 50 cents and A-A cards will not be honored, Douglas R. Mills, director of athletics, announced. Tickets may be purchased in advance at 102 Illinois Hall, Champaign.

In effort to give his top players a good test, Combes will use seven members of the varsity on one squad and combine remainder of the varsity squad with freshmen to provide opposition. One 1955 regular, forward Bill Altenberger, is recovering from a virus infection and will not see action.

Combes probably will start a combination of four lettermen and one newcomer, since sophomores

The ISD Tigers won a thriller from Bluffs Friday night 55-53 for their fourth straight victory and first in PMBC conference play. It was a pressing attack that Bluffs put on the Tigers in the 3rd quarter that almost brought them victory.

With only one minute and 30 seconds remaining on the clock, Higdon hit a 6-footer for the Deaf that ended the scoring for the game. Albers, Bluffs center, was fouled and had hit both the free tosses the game could have gone into overtime. ISD got possession of the ball and Duncan let time run out on the clock as the whole Bluffs team pursued him.

The first quarter found the ISD down 10-12. Al Duncan, who is the spark plug for the Tigers, had 8 of the 10 points and Katkinson had 6 of the 12 for Bluffs.

In the second quarter two quick baskets by Mehrling started ISD to rolling. Controlling the backboards and the zone defense they were using, started Katkinson hurrying his shots which saw Bluffs down at the half 33-20. Al Duncan continued pacing ISD with his fine passing and good shooting in the third quarter. Then Bluffs threw a full court press on the Tigers.

The Tiger passing became wild and Bluffs pulled up to within 9 points as the 3rd quarter ended.

During the fourth quarter it was nip and tuck all the way. Davis, Bluffs guard, began hitting from all over and with 2 minutes 29 seconds to go, he broke the tie with two free throws. Al Duncan hit two free tosses for the Deaf to make the score 53-51 in Bluffs favor. Schultz, ISD center, tied the ball game up which paved the way for Higdon's 6-footer and a victory for Coach Jim Spink's boys.

U.S. OLYMPIC SKIERS IN LONDON

LONDON (P) — The U. S. Olympic ski team, 13 men and women, arrived by air Friday en route to Italy for the 1956 winter games, starting Jan. 26.

One of the American athletes is Mrs. Andrea Mead Lawrence of Parshall, Colo., who has had three children since she won two Olympic gold medals in 1952.

Stamina, DeVore's 33 Points Give Rockets 57-46 Home Triumph

Superior stamina and a stellar performance by senior guard Jim DeVore teamed up last night to give coach Larry Zitkus' Routt High School Rockets a 57-46 basketball victory over visiting Perry.

The game—a tight, bitterly contested battle that was in doubt until the final minutes—was played before a screaming, partisan near-capacity crowd in the Our Saviour's Grade School gym.

In a sense, Routt did not win the game last night—it won it during football season. All save one member of the Routt basketball varsity played football, and it was the Rockets' generally superior physical condition—the result of gridiron training—that told in the end.

Last night's contest moved slowly at the start, both teams playing deliberate ball. Routt was cold in that first quarter, and the home found Perry's Pioneers on top, 8-4.

The Rockets began to employ a full-court press as the second quarter opened. This strategy, maintained through three quarters, finally wore their opponents down.

With 43 seconds remaining in the first half, the slowly rallying Rockets threw the game into a 20-20 tie. But the Pioneers sank a two-pointer with 37 seconds to go, and at the halftime horn still led, 22-20.

In the hectic second half, the lead changed hands seven times before Routt established final superiority in the final five minutes.

The third period was only 30 seconds old when Routt again knotted the count, 22-22. In the next 45 seconds the Rockets sank a pair of field goals to take the lead for the first time, 26-22.

Perry resumed the lead, 30-28, with 4:30 to go in the quarter; with 1:30 seconds remaining, Routt took it back, 37-36, to lead at a break for the first time in the game.

In the final quarter, it was all Routt, although the rapidly tiring Pioneers fought gamely. Perry sank a two-pointer to lead 38-37, 45 seconds into the period; Routt came right back 15 seconds later to lead 39-37.

With 6:15 remaining in the contest, Perry saw the lead for the last time, 40-39.

Five minutes and 45 seconds before the final horn, Routt moved into a 42-39 ascendancy which Perry could never threaten.

DeVore—who'd been hot all evening—just couldn't miss in those final five minutes, and it was primarily his phenomenal scoring which built up the final 57-46 Routt victory margin.

DeVore's tally for the contest was 33 points—nine more than his teammates scored together. B. Thiele and W. Hannant paced the Perry offensive with 14 markers apiece.

Routt made a clean sweep of the evening, but the B-squad game was an even closer affair than the varsity tilt. The end of regulation play saw the two jayvee squads deadlocked 33-33; but in the first overtime period the Rockets scored four points to their foes two to win, 37-35.

New York Stock Market

NEW YORK (AP)—A late rally kicked the stock market to the upside Friday after a mainly irregular session.

Prices at the close were the day's best for many key issues but there were several losers.

The market was mixed during most of the morning, then tilted to the downside in early afternoon, remaining there until the final hour.

Volume for the day totaled 2,400,000 shares compared with 2,370,000 Thursday.

The Associated Press average of 60 stocks advanced 30 cents to $180.50, with the industrials up 60 cents, the rails off 10 cents and the utilities up 10 cents.

Generally, gains and losses were in fractions of the pivotal stocks with some stretching as much as $2 either way.

Steels profited by the late spurt. Chemicals did fairly well throughout the day.

On the American Stock Exchange prices were irregularly higher. Volume totaled 880,000 shares compared with 940,000 Thursday.

MOST GRAINS CLOSE WITH SMALL GAINS

By WILLIAM FERRIS

CHICAGO (AP)—Most grains closed a little higher on the Board of Trade Friday, though new crop wheat futures ended with losses running to one cent.

Firm cash grain prices, prospects for increased exports and wintery weather in much of the Midwest were behind the buying. New crop wheat eased on the prospect of additional moisture in the winter wheat area.

Wheat closed 1 cent lower to 1/2 higher, corn 1/2 to 2 cents higher, oats unchanged to 1/4 lower, rye 1 to 1 1/4 higher, soybeans 1/2 to 1 cent higher and lead 8 to 13 cents a hundred pounds higher.

Flour mills reportedly bought wheat at Minneapolis, reflecting moderate flour sales to domestic bakers, and the action of the bread cereal at that market helped wheat at Chicago.

The five-day weather outlook mentioned considerable moisture for parts of the Southwest. This was the main factor in the selloff of new crop wheat.

A steamer carrying 118,000 bushels of corn loaded out of Chicago for Cardinal, Canada, and one with 128,300 bushels went to Toronto. Cash corn receipts were not large, totaling 167 cars. Great Britain bought 350,000 bushels of cash corn.

In soybeans, the principal supporting factor was the continued slow climb in cash soybean meal. It was up 50 cents at $49.50 a ton. That compared with a close last weekend of $48.50 to $48.00. Japan was expected to buy some soybeans shortly.

New York Bond Market

NEW YORK (AP)—Selected industrial issues performed well in a mixed bond market Friday.

U. S. Treasury securities advanced as much as 5-32 in quiet trading. Strength was concentrated in the intermediate obligations. Corporate trading increased to $4,120,000 par value from $2,820,000 Thursday.

REALISTIC!
VARINA, Va. — The staged accident in front of the American Legion hall here was pretty realistic to George Elmore Whitman.

Two automobiles were placed in position. A dummy figure was splashed with catsup to simulate blood. Gasoline was poured into a hub cap and set afire. A man banged a fence with a shovel to indicate a crash. The Henrico Volunteer Fire Department trucks dashed up from their arranged position several hundred yards away.

At this point Whitman, a construction superintendent (also a member of the fire department), came in. Thinking the accident the real thing he kicked the flaming hub cap to prevent the cars from burning. His kick splashed burning gasoline over his leg. He ran screaming but the fire department grabbed him and smothered the flames.

S. Jacksonville Acts To Collect Sewer Payments

The South Jacksonville village board instructed its attorney and police at a meeting Thursday night to proceed with collection of delinquent sewer assessments, and take necessary legal action against delinquents.

Members of the village board said a large majority of property owners paid annual sewer assessments after notices were mailed last August, but that a number of delinquents remain on the books.

Village Clerk W. J. Schildman, 1605 Hardin avenue, is in charge of annual sewer assessment collections.

Attorney T. C. Rammelkamp, village attorney, pointed out that unpaid sewer assessments become a lien against real estate.

President Otis Axe presided at the semi-monthly meeting of the board, which was attended by Trustees Birdsell, Walters, Gotschall, Simke, and Ford. Trustee Beastall was absent.

Adlai, Williams Willing To Talk Over Differences

OKLAHOMA CITY (P)—Adlai Stevenson and Gov. G. Mennen Williams of Michigan said Friday they are willing to talk over their difference of opinion as to the type of presidential campaign the Democrats should conduct in 1956.

Stevenson, 1952 Democratic nominee, is an announced candidate for renomination next year while Williams is being boomed as a possible nominee.

Both were speakers at the national convention of Young Democrats here.

Stevenson's statement at Chicago Nov. 19 calling for a program of "moderation" brought a retort from Williams last week in Denver that the Democratic party should embrace a "bold and progressive" program.

Williams said there was no split of personalities over the issue and added, "I was not in a state of war at any time."

Told what Williams had said at a press conference, Stevenson replied, "I'm glad I'm not at war with him. I will be glad to meet him and talk about it."

They met briefly at a reception but Stevenson's tight schedule prevented any time for a conference.

PROPOSES FORESTRY TO REHABILITATE SKID ROW DERELICTS

CHICAGO (P)—Ret. Adm. Ross T. McIntire (Ret.), one-time personal physician to the late President Franklin D. Roosevelt, proposed today that young Skid Row derelicts be put to work in government forest projects as part of a rehabilitation plan.

McIntire, recently appointed executive director of the American College of Surgeons, made the suggestion during a visit to Chicago's Monroe street court where he watched 199 drunkenness cases handled.

"This is a terrific social problem in the field of rehabilitation," McIntire said, "I am interested because I was formerly chairman of the President's commission for employment of the Handicapped."

"If this isn't a handicap, I don't know what is."

McIntire said he had in mind some program similar to that of the Civilian Conservation Corps of the '30s.

"We could take half of these people out of the courtroom, because we need them now in our national forests and parks. This would be a voluntary program. I personally feel that the CCC camps did a tremendous job of rehabilitating the younger people from the big cities in the depression years."

Nationalist China Hits Plan To Admit 18 Nations To U.N.

UNITED NATIONS N. Y. (P)—Nationalist China Friday assailed a proposal to admit 18 nations to U.N. membership in a package deal as "unconditional surrender" to the Soviet Union.

Ambassador T. F. Tsiang, Chinese delegation leader, said a resolution approving the package—including 13 Western-sponsored countries and five Soviet satellites—represented a turn-around in the U.N. in the face of Soviet vetoes.

"This is blackmail," he told the Assembly Special Political Committee. "The United Nations, after all these years of struggle, is asked by the joint draft resolution to pay the blackmail demanded by the Soviet Union."

The resolution before the committee was sponsored by Canada and 27 other nations, including the African-Asian bloc, Latin-American, and British Commonwealth countries.

Canada's Paul Martin said he is certain at least 45 countries in the committee will approve the 18-nation package deal.

Tsiang posed a veto threat over Soviet-supported Outer Mongolia in his statement to the committee but did not state specifically that his delegation would veto the Outer Mongolia application when it reached the Security Council stage.

Hitch-Hiking Polio Victim In Quest Of Faith Cure

GETTYSBURG, Pa. (P)—An attractive young polio victim and her husband rejected White House advice to go home Friday and continued a hitch-hiking tour that they hope will get them, somehow, to the Philippine Islands in quest of a faith cure.

Dawn Courtman, 22, who is making the trip from Easton, Pa., in a wheelchair, and her husband Daniel got as far as President Eisenhower's temporary office here with $8 and a Bible.

They wanted to ask the President's help in getting passports for a trip to Manila where, they said, evangelist Oral Roberts could "as God's agent" restore the use of "Dawnie's" paralyzed legs.

Secret Service agents advised them to turn back—because, among other things, of icy roads ahead. In any case, the agents told them, the problem was not one for the President but rather for passport authorities in Washington.

"We'll go to Washington," Daniel also 22, decided.

"We can't turn back now," he told a reporter. "This is Dawnie's chance to walk again. Besides, we hope our experience may restore faith in God to some of those who have lost it."

Each married after their quarrel, and they didn't meet again until last summer, after both their spouses had died. They have nine children between them.

No Evidence For Criminal Charge Against Dunbar

SPRINGFIELD, Ill. (P)—A Sangamon County grand jury reported Friday it found no evidence on which to base criminal charges in connection with a food hauling contract once held by James W. Dunbar Trucking Co. of Springfield.

The report, submitted in Circuit Court, wound up an investigation which took seven days and involved 35 witnesses.

The contract for hauling federal surplus foods to Illinois schools and institutions was awarded without bids to Dunbar in 1952 by State School Supt. Vernon L. Nickell.

It was canceled last April 1 after a congressional subcommittee excessive profits had been made. Dunbar denied the accusation.

The grand jury said it had reviewed audit reports, contracts, financial statements, bond records and the testimony before the congressional subcommittee.

Dunbar, who is Sangamon County probate clerk, appeared before the jury during the investigation. Other witnesses included Nickell, his school lunch program director, Chicago public school officials, agents of the U. S. Agriculture Department and Dunbar employees.

HELICOPTER PLAYS NEW ROLE

GLOUCESTER, Mass. (P)—When a burning fishing vessel was driven aground 50 yards off Good Harbor Beach Friday, a versatile Coast Guard helicopter played a new role—carried the nozzle of a fire department hose line out to the blazing craft.

With it, Capt. Eugene M. Naves, 35, and his one-man crew of the 52-foot boat Veronica N. extinguished flames.

Capt. Naves said fire broke out off Thatcher Island and he headed the vessel toward the beach as the quickest method to obtain aid.

Rowe stated that during the week his petitions would be in the mail to all committeemen in the new district, which is now comprised of Adams, Calhoun, Greene, Morgan, Pike and Scott counties. He said that he has traveled all six counties and the encouragement he has received has caused him to decide to announce his candidacy.

Rowe has been active in Republican affairs for a number of years, and is presently completing a term as alderman in Jacksonville. He is married, he served in World War II, is a Mason and a member of the American Legion, Amvets, Elks, Kiwanis and the Jaycees.

"I expect to make a vigorous campaign in each and every county, and to express my views from time to time on matters of interest to the voters," Attorney Rowe said. "I believe that the interests of our farmers and our city workers require careful attention by the State Legislature, and I pledge myself to serve diligently and faithfully if nominated and elected."

BUCHANAN GIVES LIBRARY BOOK ON FUNERAL DIRECTING

The Public Library received this week a gift copy of "The History of American Funeral Directing by Habenstein and Lamers, Bill W. Buchanan, partner in the Gillham Funeral Home was the donor.

This book is the first full length written account of the funeral directing profession. It is the culmination of years of intensive research and objective analysis, and has just been released the past few weeks.

While the contents is full of great human interest, even to the casual reader, it is carefully told and amply documented in a way that will appeal to the serious historian. The book is also rich in examples and illustrations.

Worthy of special note is Appendix 1, which deals with the Graves Registration Services and the return of the War Dead Program of the Armed Forces.

The three part, 13 sectioned contents record the progress of funeral service from the early Egyptians, about 5000 BC to the present time. The three parts are: Early Mortuary Behavior; Rise of the American Funeral Undertaking and Organization of Modern Funeral Service.
